

List of program containers of all body parts

Effective 26. January 2014

Explanation:

There are containers which share one channel like you see here with the bones and the muscles. In those cases the sum of all programs is nine million, therefore identical with the programs in the channel.

There are containers with several channels, like the kidneys. Those containers have nine million program slots as well. The solar plexus for example, has nine million slots despite the fact that it is accessed by four channels.
